

Happiness is a state of mind.
It cannot be measured in dollars and cents or By what kind of cars we drive or by how many things we own For material things may fill our homes
But they can never really fill our hearts.